Although the North Western Waters Regional Advisory Council operates through three languages: English, French and Spanish, the definitive language for the text of this document is English.

The text in French and Spanish is for information proposes only.

PREAMBLE

Introduction

This submission has been prepared by the RAC Development Working Group of the Western Waters Trans-National Partnership. It proposes the establishment of a Regional Advisory Council for the North Western Waters (NWW RAC), to be co-ordinated by the Secretariat to the North Western Waters RAC, Bord Iascaigh Mhara (BIM), the Irish Sea Fisheries Board.

The founding membership, which has been consulted on this submission, is listed in the Provisional Lists of Organisations and will be supplemented by additional members, to be agreed by concerned Member States as the RAC develops and extends its activities.

It is planned that the First General Assembly of the North Western Waters RAC will take place in September 2005.

Rationale

It is accepted, throughout the European Union, that there is a need to adapt and improve the governance of the Common Fisheries Policy; not only to open up the policy-making process to interested parties but also to promote greater accountability and responsibility for all those involved. The Commission has proposed the establishment of RACs to ensure greater stakeholder involvement at the regional and local level.

RACs may

- Submit recommendations and suggestions of their own accord or at the request of the Commission or Member State, on matters relating to fisheries management to the Commission or the Member States Concerned.
- Give an opinion on Commission or Member State proposals on conservation and management dealing with a fishery relevant to the region concerned;
- Inform the Commission or the Member State concerned, of problems relating to the implementation of Community rules and submit recommendations and suggestions, addressing such problems, to the Commission or the Member State concerned
- Conduct any other activities necessary to fulfill their functions.

Although the Commission and Member States concerned will not be bound by the recommendations and suggestions of the RACs, the Commission and, where relevant, the concerned Member States, will reply precisely to them within a reasonable time period and, at the latest, within three months.

This proposal, which originated within the Western Waters Trans-National Partnership, is for a North Western Waters RAC, which will fulfill the Commission's specification for an RAC, act in the capacity of an RAC and establish the principles and procedures for efficient operation as a RAC. At the end of a three year period, the operation and effectiveness of the RAC will be reviewed and evaluated.

The participants intend that the North Western Waters RAC will act as a testing ground where stakeholders can agree and commit themselves to specific initiatives, which may subsequently develop into recommendations for policy instruments for managing the North Western Waters fisheries.

The RAC will operate within the context of the Common Fisheries Policy. The RAC may also concern itself with wider activities in the marine environment, including dumping and dredging, oil and gas exploration and development, offshore wind farms, conservation activities and other factors, which might have major impacts upon the fisheries and their management.

The North Western Waters RAC will co-operate with RACs established for other regions, especially with respect to straddling fish stocks and wide-ranging, non-target species and will adopt joint recommendations if appropriate.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTIVES

Regional Advisory Councils are provided for in Article 31 of European Council Regulation (EC) No. 2371/2002 of the 20th December 2002, on the conservation and sustainable exploitation of fisheries resources under the Common Fisheries Policy and subsequently implemented in Council Decision (EC) 585/2004/EC of 19 July 2004, establishing Regional Advisory Councils under the CFP.

In accordance with these regulations the principal objective of the RAC will be to contribute to the achievement of the objectives of the CFP and in particular to advise the Commission on matters of fisheries management in respect of the North Western Waters. This advice will incorporate the social, economic and environmental dimensions of fisheries as well as the Ecosystem Based Approach and Precautionary Approach to management and will be prepared with the general aim of attaining sustainable fisheries management.

Advice from the RAC shall be provided to the Fisheries Council of the European Community, the European Commission, The European Parliament, individual Member States of the European Community, and other bodies. It shall also be forwarded to the Commission's Advisory Committee on Fisheries and Aquaculture (ACFA), the International Council for Exploration of the Sea (ICES), Regional Authorities and other interested parties.

The North Western Waters RAC will develop and refine its objectives, operational priorities, structure and procedures as it evolves. From its inception, the North Western Waters RAC will give priority to refining the:

- Objectives
- Operating principles
- Rules of procedure
- Budget estimate

A large proportion of the North Western Waters RAC's deliberations will be in response to opinions sought by Member States and the Commission. Priority items will include: multi-annual fishing plans, multi-species management, development of an ecosystem based approach towards fisheries management, improvements in scientific, technical and economic advice, improvements in inspection monitoring and control and other topics of relevance to the North Western Waters fisheries. In addition, it is anticipated that a substantial part of the RAC's workload will involve "own initiative" policies and programmes. In this area of activity, it will be important to avoid duplicating the efforts of established committees, institutions and agencies.

The experience and expertise contributed by RAC members, in conjunction with specialist input from external sources, will enable the RAC encourage fisheries management strategies that promote economic, environmental and stock, sustainability.

OPERATING PRINCIPLES

The North Western Waters RAC will operate according to the general principles stipulated in Council Regulation 2371/2002 and Council Decision 585/2004/EC establishing Regional Advisory Councils under the CFP.

Membership

The North Western Waters RAC is designed to address all the functions specified in these regulations, and to include all relevant parties. Therefore, membership rules for the RAC need to be flexible enough to ensure participation of all parties with an interest in the fisheries issues concerned. Hence, those involved, as members, will include amongst others: commercial fishermen, catching sub-sector, including shipowners, small-scale fishermen, self-employed/employed fishermen, producer organizations, processors, traders and other market organizations, women's networks, environmental organisations and groups, aquaculture producers, consumers and recreational or sport fishermen.

Representatives of the European Commission, Member States and Regional Authorities may attend as active observers. Scientists and/or experts from national and regional institutes or international bodies and other qualified scientists may be invited to assist in the work of the RAC.

Representatives of Non-EU countries with a fishing interest in the areas covered by the North Western Waters RAC will also have a right to participate as active observers when issues which affect them are discussed.¹

European and national organisations representing the fisheries sector and other interest groups may propose members to the Member States concerned. These Member States shall agree on the members of the General Assembly.

Structure

In order to achieve a balance between the need for efficiency and inclusiveness, the RAC will consist of a General Assembly, made up of a balanced representation of all interests, affected by the CFP, within the North Western Waters. The General Assembly will meet at least once a year.

The General Assembly will appoint an Executive Committee to act as a focus for the activities of the North Western Waters RAC. The Executive Committee will manage the work of the RAC and adopt its recommendations and suggestions. The Executive Committee will be restricted in size to 24 members and will have a balanced representation of all parties affected by the Common Fisheries Policy. Meetings of the Executive Committee will take place at least three times each year within different Member State Countries involved in the North Western Waters RAC.

In the General Assembly and Executive Committee, two thirds of the seats shall be allotted to representatives of the fisheries sector and one third to representatives of the other interest groups affected by the Common Fisheries Policy, as defined in Article 1 of Council Decision 585/2004/EC.

Two members of the catching sector from each Member State concerned will be represented on the Executive Committee. However, these arrangements shall not prejudice any future arrangements made and agreed by the General Assembly of the North Western Waters.

The RAC for the North Western Waters will concern itself with fisheries within Area VI (West of Scotland) and the whole of Area VII including Areas VIId and VIIe. Given the size of the area, it is proposed that work for the North Western Waters RAC should function on the basis of four, clearly defined, sub-areas.

- West of Scotland ICES areas Vb (EC) VIa, VIb
- Western Approaches, West of Ireland & Celtic Sea ICES areas VII (except d, e & a)
- English Channel ICES areas VIId & VIIe
- Irish Sea ICES area VIIa

¹For the purposes of the North Western Waters RAC, representatives from the fisheries' sector and other interest groups from the United Kingdom Crown Dependencies, namely the Isle of Man and the Channel Islands, shall be eligible for involvement in the RAC as stakeholders with a fishing interest in accordance with article 5.1 of the Council Decision (EC) 585/2004.

Four Working Groups will be established based on these areas, to assist the Executive Committee in developing fishing-area-specific proposals and advice within the overall objectives of the North Western Waters RAC. These Working Groups will enable a wide range of technical experts to take part as well as expanding the scope for stakeholder participation. Voting members of Working Groups must be members of the North Western Waters RAC General Assembly.

These groups shall not preclude any changes to the area coverage of the working groups, the establishment of additional issue focused working groups, or any other sub-groups, at the determination and direction of the Executive Committee. Annexe 1 provides an overview of the initial structure of the RAC which can be amended to reflect any additional working groups as determined by the Executive Committee.

The Executive Committee of the RAC will coordinate the day-to-day activities of the RAC and its Working Groups and will be the final arbitrator of all advice and opinion issued by the RAC. Working Groups, established by the RAC, will report directly to the Executive Committee, will operate within prescribed rules and procedures established by the RAC. Working Groups may exercise latitude appropriate to the diversity of characteristics and fisheries that fall within their remit, when undertaking their work programme.

There will be a separate Chairperson of the General Assembly and the Executive Committee.

The RAC will, where possible, adopt recommendations by consensus. If no consensus can be reached, dissenting opinions, expressed by members, shall be recorded in the recommendations adopted by the majority of the members present and voting.

All RAC members will be required to use and develop skills and procedures necessary to build agreements that are more imaginative, in construction, than simple compromise and more constructive in foresight than agreement on no change.

The decisions reached by the RAC should be based on reliable technical and scientific information, which incorporates the views of fishermen and other stakeholders.

Emergency measures proposed by the European Commission, will require rapid responses from the RAC, which will only be achieved once trust and effective logistical procedures have been established between the members.

Data Availability

Wide use will be made of scientific, technical and economic advice and information from existing sources, including that made available by the European Commission and Member States. It will be important that Member States and the Commission make available to the North Western Waters RAC appropriate and relevant data collected from the fisheries that fall within the remit of the RAC, and from scientific or economic surveys, so that the RAC is as well informed as possible.

Dissemination

The annual General Assembly will provide an effective means for communicating with the wider constituency of stakeholders and the public and will provide a forum for fishermen and other stakeholders to debate points of interest and concern with members of the Executive Committee and the membership in general.

The General Assembly will provide an opportunity for an annual review of the performance of the RAC and will ratify the annual report presented by the Executive Committee. In addition, the General Assembly will also provide a platform for the Executive Committee to present a preview of the programme and priorities for the coming year and seek debate, input and ultimate approval of the annual strategic plan for the RAC.

Representatives from the fisheries sector and other interest groups affected by the Common Fisheries Policy, along with the wider public that have a legitimate interest in fisheries matters, are entitled to information on the deliberations and workings of the RAC. As a result, meetings of the General Assembly shall be open to the public. Meetings of the Executive Committee shall likewise be open to the public unless decided otherwise by a majority decision of the Executive Committee. Furthermore, by rotating the location of meetings it is intended that as many stakeholders as possible should participate and assume ownership of the process.

As part of an active communications programme, the RAC will maintain a web site, produce press releases after its formal meetings and provide full and timely reports on all its activities. Recommendations adopted by the Executive Committee shall be made available immediately to the General Assembly, the Commission, concerned Member States, the European Parliament and, upon request, to any member of the public.

Rules of Procedure

The provisional rules of procedure for the North Western Waters RAC are provided. These rules shall be ratified at the First General Assembly of the RAC which will include the full range of organizations agreed with Member States. The Executive Committee will then be appointed by the first General Assembly.

Terms of Reference for the Working Groups with a communication strategy and protocol, will be produced and agreed by the Executive Committee.
